Student Volunteering Stories

Pro Bono Christmas volunteering for women’s groups

Over the Christmas period, the society ran a 'Warmth Collection', looking for volunteers with any spare warm clothing: hats, gloves, scarves, jumpers and coats. The society then spent the morning at the Women’s Centre in Nottingham, distributing the clothing to the women and their families. Any left-over clothing was then taken to POW Nottingham, another women's centre who focus on helping and rehabilitating street workers. The society would like to thank everyone who donated; the interest and level of donations was incredible. We had volunteers from different subjects, from law to pharmacy and chemistry who gave up some of their warmth to keep others warm.

The women who received the donations were incredibly donated and found it hard to believe the level of donations, and that they could keep the clothing at no cost to themselves. As always, students surpassed all expectations.
